

"Smoke Showing" is a 13-minutes video that visually demonstrates the dangers and challenges faced by firefighters during a structure fire. This film serves to educate recruit firefighters elected officials, and the public about fire department operations.

It demonstrates the need for a safe, aggressive interior attack, coupled with adequate resources in order to save lives and reduce property loss.

The video was produced by the New Hartford, CT, fire department, Fire Engineering and the Hartford Insurance along with several other companies.

This would be an excellent video to show to community groups and local politicians to educate them about the "what" and whys of fire operations.

The video is available online at:

<http://video.google.com/videoplay?docid=1975040321393374985&hl=en>

You are allowed to download this video (be sure to download the Google video player as well) to use for presentations or an intro to new firefighters or any other use. Both the player and the video are free to anyone who would like to download them.