

The Binghamton Brewing Co. is putting on a city-wide parade and Craft Beer Festival on Saturday, August 20th, and we would love for you to join us!

Our brewery is fortunate to be located in Johnson City, NY in the beautiful "EJ & Co. Fire Prevention Station No. 1" - the first privately owned fire station in the country, circa 1916. This year, the brewery will be celebrating its 2-year anniversary and we are marking our milestone, the centennial of the building, and coincidentally, 100 years of Johnson City being named JC!

To celebrate "100 Years of History" with the whole community we are cordially inviting all pieces of fire apparatus - classic and modern - to participate. In the name of inspiring goals, we are hoping to have 100 vehicles in a parade down Main St, Johnson City at 11am on 8/20/2016. Following that, we will have our annual beer festival on Avenue B - complete with large tents, food, music and of course craft beer. We will also have a reviewing stand for the parade with awards.

We hope you can join us to commemorate the community's rich history, and to have an old-fashioned good time!

Regards,

Your friends at Binghamton Brewing Co.
